Storyboard Sample: Giving Clear Feedback

Microlearning purpose: help new managers practice giving specific, respectful, behavior-based feedback during a performance conversation.

Screen	On-Screen Content	Narration/Facilitator Note	Interaction
1	Title: Giving Clear Feedback	Today you will practice turning vague feedback into clear, actionable feedback.	Start button
2	Scenario: A team member repeatedly submits reports late.	Learners review the situation and choose how to respond.	Scenario prompt
3	Choice A: "You need to do better." Choice B: "Your last two reports were submitted after the deadline..."	Learners compare vague vs specific feedback.	Branching choice
4	Feedback model: Situation, Behavior, Impact, Next Step	Introduce simple structure for feedback.	Click to reveal example
5	Practice: Rewrite vague feedback using the model.	Learners draft response.	Text reflection
6	Knowledge check	Select the response that is specific, respectful, and actionable.	Multiple choice
7	Wrap-up	Provide downloadable conversation checklist.	Download job aid

Design Notes

- Scenario-based learning supports realistic practice.
- The interaction requires learners to make a choice, not just read content.
- Feedback after each choice explains why the option is effective or ineffective.
- The job aid supports performance after the course.
